CUSTODIAL HISTORY
The Teressa W. Dewolf Collection was donated to the Canadian Women’s Movement Archives (CWMA) on June 14, 1984 by Teressa (Terri) De Wolf. When the CWMA folded in 1992, the Collection was donated to the Archives and Special Collections of the University of Ottawa along with all the records held by the former CWMA.

SCOPE AND CONTENT
The collection pertains to a wide range of feminist issues such as education, health, human rights, International Women’s Year, women and the law, mental health, marriage, women in the work force, women’s studies programmes, status of women, ISIS/women and film, etc. They were most likely collected by T.W. Dewolf in the course of her career and relate mostly to events and organisations in British Columbia (Canada), between 1971 and 1977.

NOTE ON ARRANGEMENT

At the request of the donor, the material was kept in its original order with the exception of publications, posters and oversize textual documents that were removed from the collection and filed separately according to their specific conservation needs. When items were removed by the staff, a note has been left in the folder explaining what was done with the items and how to consult it. Folder titled “Marriage: Marital Relation” was found empty and removed from the list. 6 centimeters of duplicate publications were discarded.
